6. Presentation

a. Family Zoning Plan

i. Presenters: David Garcia, Sarah Davidson, SF Planning

David Garcia and Sarah Davidson gave their presentation on the Family Zoning Plan, as well as an overview of what zoning is and how it works throughout San Francisco.

Commissioner Shah asked if this plan kickstarts construction of new housing or if it just zones to allow new housing, to which Garcia said that this plan will approve the zoning that will allow for this new construction. Garcia added that the City is working on other plans to help kickstart construction, such as affordable housing or projects that are stuck in the pipeline. Shah also asked how this plan will focus affordable housing to be built in places that need it the most, to which Garcia said that this plan will be spread throughout the City and will be more family-friendly and affordable than current laws, and said that there are various fees that will help contribute to the City's affordable housing fund towards 100% affordable housing projects. Davidson added that this Family Zoning Plan focuses on higher opportunity areas because most of the City's new housing development has taken place in the eastern portion of the City, and so this plan is focusing on making up housing demand on the western portion of the City.

Commissioner Marlow asked where in District 2 the Family Zoning Plan focuses on building new housing since there is already a lot of housing and congestion, to which Davidson said the majority of the areas that are upzoned are focused along major transit corridors to allow new residents to have access to MUNI. Garcia added that the SF Planning website has an interactive map of San Francisco that they can look at where these projects may be built. Commissioner Marlow asked how middle-income families will be able to afford to live in the new housing since current housing is more expensive in District 2, to which Davidson said this plan focuses on protecting tenants that already live there, as well as the affordability aspect of new smaller units being compared to a new single-family home being built. Garcia added that this plan hopes to address and continue evolving to build "missing middle" housing for middle-class families, and he mentioned that legislators and planners are exploring other reforms to housing construction that can reduce construction costs, like single-stair reform. Davidson added that building large swaths of new housing will help to reduce the cost of housing instead of continuing to skyrocket.

Officer Mordehai asked how the Family Zoning Plan will affect small businesses on major transit corridors, and asked about how projects could possibly demolish the buildings that currently exist, to which Davidson said that it will affect these business corridors, but that the plan looks at underutilized sites and history shows that most of these types of development take place on parking or vacant lots. Officer Mordehai asked about two-story housing above small businesses and how their tenants may be affected by construction and upzoning, to which Davidson said that all buildings that have 3 or more rent-controlled units will have greater protections and be extremely hard to demolish.

Commissioner Fortgang asked how the greater influx of residents will affect other public services like transportation and others, to which Garcia said these questions are determined based on submitted environmental impact reports, and that the City's departments are looking at this Family Zoning Plan to anticipate in advance of these new residents. Commissioner Fortgang asked what the result would be with a possible state takeover if this plan is taken partially or not at all, to which Garcia said that the State of California will implement "builder's remedy" and that any project will be allowed, as long as they meet all state requirements, and San Francisco will fully lose local control and regulation of new housing development. Davidson added that Senate Bill 79 increases housing density around major transit routes, including in residential areas, and that would take affect in July 2026 if no alternative was passed to account for these new units.

Officer Jacques asked if there's benefits to Black and Brown families that need access to housing, to which Garcia said there was a racial equity analysis done for this plan, and that this plan specifically focuses on building housing in richer and less diverse areas of the City that have historically not been open to higher density due to past segregation patterns.

Commissioner Mon asked how they will accommodate schools to be more prepared to take in more students where housing will be built, to which Davidson said that SFUSD is currently under the threat of school closures due to lower enrollment numbers, so that there's plenty of space for students to fill classrooms. Commissioner Mon asked how they will address aging infrastructure that would likely be affected by increased residents, and Davidson said that the City's departments are already using these types of plans to account for the greater capacity of residents that may live here.

Commissioner Yang asked about microretailing spaces and how that would affect the retail zones would be affected before and after development, to which Davidson said that they are trying to offer further support services since the state does not allow for local jurisdictions to implement rent control for businesses.

Commissioner Liu asked how businesses can be protected as they're being moved, to which Davidson said they can't force the developer to move the previous displaced business but they can offer first right of return to that location by the developer.

Commissioner Trujillo asked about opposition to affordable housing, to which Garcia said oftentimes it's nearby resistance to possible social issues that can come with the affordable housing projects, but that the landscape for development has changed.

Vice Chair Lonné Amir asked how traffic and congestion will be affected on major streets like Lombard Street, to which Davidson said the Controller's Office did a report and found that these types of construction projects didn't have a major effect on traffic congestion since they take place mainly off of the street or temporarily. Davidson said that these projects can take years to finish, but that there is an effort to reduce construction times to meet the City's housing goals.

Officer Mordehai asked how many studies have been done on the implications of small business support or lack thereof, to which Davidson said the fund has been created but that the details and implementation of support has yet to be seen since the plan is still in the amendment phase.

Commissioner Shah asked if the plan was based off of other cities since San Francisco doesn't have many skyscrapers, to which Garcia said the plan is based off of focusing on what other cities were doing to further housing development, as well as increasing density near the biggest boulevards to not disrupt the fabric of neighborhoods.

Commissioner Yang asked about financial oversight since this plan will take place over many years and that the affordable housing fund focuses on building much-needed housing, to which Garcia said the affordable housing fund is already significantly past its ability to fund projects, and that legislators are continuing to work on methods that will further the City's ability to fund affordable housing projects.

Chair Listana asked about the Controller Office's report that the Family Zoning Plan will meet some of the state's requirements but not the full number and how they plan on addressing that gap, to which Davidson said it's the Planning Department's job to create the capacity for the number of units, while the Controller's report focused on effects of the plan based on the potential economic impacts. Garcia added that the Board of Supervisors are continuing to discuss what other tools and options they have to increase the real number of housing units that are built by approving this plan.

Commissioner Marlow left the meeting at 6:06pm, and returned at 6:12pm.
Commissioner Trujillo left the meeting at 6:20pm, and returned at 6:22pm.

Chair Listana called for a 10-minute recess at 6:30pm, and returned at 6:42pm.

7. Legislation Referred (Discussion and Possible Action)

- a. BOS File No. 250700 - Zoning Map - Family Zoning Plan
- b. BOS File No. 250701 - Planning, Business and Tax Regulations Codes - Family Zoning Plan

Officer Mordehai said that since Officer Conboy isn't present today but that they had discussed that today was a great introduction to the Family Zoning Plan, and that this would be a great opportunity for Commissioners to now go to their communities to gather feedback.

Officer Mordehai, seconded by Commissioner Marlow, motioned to table Item 7 to the next full Youth Commission meeting.

Discussion:

Commissioner Shah said that while she sees that District 3 is heavily impacted by this plan, that this plan does help match the City to be in compliance with the state's housing goals and make housing more affordable for families. She is leaning in support of the legislation.

Commissioner Fortgang said she agrees, and that she wants to see more conversation around ensuring affordable housing actually gets built, preventing displacement, and that the City's services are strained so much to not meet the demand. She also wants to see more answers about the state housing goal not being met.

Vice Chair Lonné Amir said she hears the presenters on them saying it won't majorly impacts traffic congestion, but she can see that it would have an impact that deserves a more definitive plan on how those issues will be addressed.

Commissioner Marlow said that she fully agrees that traffic will be an issue on major roads, and she wants more time to think about how she feels about this legislation.

Officer Mordehai said that she wants to see how small businesses will be affected through these changes, since a lot of them may not find the support that they need from the City if they're displaced due to upzoning and construction.

Commissioner Yang said she wants to know more about the timeline for the Family Zoning Plan and how residents can expect on the speed of change, as well as more small business engagement from the City.

Chair Listana said she agrees that San Francisco needs more housing, and she has a lot of additional questions about the feasibility of this plan to become reality. She said it's mostly a Mayor and Board problem to figure out how to make it happen, but is supportive of the plan.

Commissioner Shah said this plan just changes where the location can be in the City when it comes to affordable housing, not necessarily that it will be built equitable.

Commissioner Trujillo said it's important to demystify false accusations about problems about affordable housing.

Public Comment:

1. Eva - They are an organizer for the Young Women's Freedom Center, and they spoke about the Youth Commission making sure to advocate for affordable housing that families can actually afford, and make sure to protect tenants and small businesses throughout the City.

Dear Mayor Lurie and Members of the Board of Supervisors,

The San Francisco Youth Commission is deeply saddened by the recent shooting near Fulton Street and the Great Highway in the Outer Richmond neighborhood on November 8, 2025. We extend our thoughts to the five victims, including four young people, and their families during this difficult time. Incidents like this highlight the urgent need for continued attention to youth safety and community well-being.

Gun violence shakes the foundation of our city and erodes the sense of safety that every San Franciscan deserves. Local data show that between 2018-2022 total shooting incidents in San Francisco increased by 74%, and gun homicides increased by 48% and according to a report from the San Francisco Youth Commission, in one school-year span (March 2022–April 2023) there were about 100 student conflicts on and off school campuses, and 31 of those involved guns. While we are grateful that all victims are expected to recover, this incident is a painful reminder that our communities, schools, and gathering spaces must be protected through proactive prevention, community investment, and trauma-informed care.

The Youth Commission has a longstanding commitment to addressing gun violence and promoting youth safety. In 2023, we passed Resolution 2223-AL-19, which urged the City & County of San Francisco to expand public awareness of gun violence restraining orders (GVROs), particularly among students, educators, and school administrators. This resolution emphasized that youth are disproportionately affected by gun violence and highlighted the importance of ensuring that both young people and adults in their communities know about the resources available to prevent harm.

Additionally, reducing gun violence and weapon access has been a consistent topic in our annual Budget and Policy Priorities, advocating for the expansion of gun buyback programs, better mental health services for youth, increasing funding for violence prevention and community safety programs, and upgrading safety infrastructure in San Franciscan schools. In 2025, the Commission also co-hosted events recognizing Gun Violence Awareness Day, further demonstrating our dedication to engaging youth in advocacy, education, and public awareness campaigns around gun safety and prevention.

In light of the Outer Richmond shooting, we urge city leaders to build upon these initiatives by supporting and expanding community-based violence prevention programs, increasing access to youth mental health resources, and fostering neighborhood environments where every young person can feel safe. The Commission stands ready to partner with city departments, schools, and local organizations to amplify these efforts and ensure that youth voices are included in the development of policies that directly affect them.

The Youth Commission remains committed to a vision of San Francisco where young people can live, learn, and thrive without fear of gun violence. We call on the Mayor, the Board of Supervisors, and all city leaders to take decisive steps to prevent further tragedies and to invest in programs that empower our youth, strengthen our communities, and promote long-term safety and well-being.

Dear Mayor Lurie and the Board of Supervisors,

The San Francisco Youth Commission is deeply disturbed by the recent prospect of the deployment of federal troops in our city which has sown fear and instability across San Francisco. We stand firmly in support of the young people and families in all communities during these distressing times, including immigrant communities, that are the foundation of this city.

On October 22, 2025, it was reported that more than 100 federal agents were being dispatched to the Bay Area which raised concerns among immigrant communities. The city and county of San Francisco responded with protective steps as the Mayor signed an executive directive to prepare for the federal deployment. Then, on October 23, 2025, President Donald J. Trump announced he was cancelling the planned deployment of federal troops. Even though the enforcement surge and National Guard deployment were paused for now, the threat or possibility remains. The trauma caused by this situation —particularly to children and youth—has led to increased fear in schools, disengagement from civic life, fear of accessing basic services such as public transit, healthcare, and legal aid, only further highlighting the need to strengthen immigrant protections in San Francisco.

The San Francisco Youth Commission has a longstanding commitment to the immigrant and undocumented communities in the city, with immigrant protections being a topic in the Youth Commission Budget and Policy Priorities from the 2010-2011, 2012-2013, 2013-2014, 2014-2015, 2015-2016, 2018-2019, 2023-2024, and 2024-2025 terms. Additionally, in the 2024-2025 term, the Youth Commission passed numerous resolutions regarding immigration. These include Motion No. 2425-AL-35, a statement on ICE raids on the undocumented community in San Francisco, and Motion No. 2425-AL-29, a Letter of Support for California Senate Bill 48, which would prohibit schools their personnel from granting immigration authorities access to the non-public areas of a school site without presenting a warrant.

Given sustained threats to San Francisco's immigrant communities, the Youth Commission urges the Mayor and the Board of Supervisors to act accordingly. We urge the Mayor and Board to take protective steps, where feasible, to protect Immigrants and defend San Francisco's Sanctuary Ordinance, including, but not limited to: combating the President's direction of illegal raids by federal agents through legislation, working with state legislators to counter federal measures, and to hold those violating San Francisco's Sanctuary status via aiding arrests of immigrants—namely law enforcement agencies supplying automated license plate data—responsible.

The Commission remains committed to building a city that protects and uplifts immigrant and undocumented communities through both policy and practice. We stand firmly behind San Francisco's sanctuary policies and urge all departments and agencies, especially those who serve youth, to uphold these protections in their work. We hope that the Mayor and Board of Supervisors will continue to advocate against inhumane practices and fund programs that protect and empower immigrant youth and families during this budget cycle.

Sincerely,

San Francisco Youth Commission 2025-2026

Re: Resolution Recognizing Holodomor Memorial Day and February 24th as a Day of Solidarity with Ukraine

Dear Commissioners,

We are writing to express our strong support for the resolution titled “Resolution Recognizing Holodomor Memorial Day and February 24th as a Day of Solidarity with Ukraine.” This letter of endorsement is on behalf of three organizations operating in the Bay Area: the Federation of Ukrainian Student Organizations of America (SUSTA), the Ukraine Support Alliance at Stanford (USAS), and TeleHelp Ukraine (THU).

SUSTA (Союз Українських Студентських Товариств Америки), a 501(c)(3) nonprofit, represents Ukrainian student organizations across the nation, fostering leadership, cultural preservation, and advocacy within Ukrainian American youth communities.

USAS, a student-led organization at Stanford University, works to promote awareness, scholarship, and humanitarian support related to Ukraine through campus initiatives and public engagement.

TeleHelp Ukraine, a 501(c)(3) nonprofit, provides crucial telemedicine support to Ukrainians affected by the ongoing war, connecting volunteer medical professionals with patients in need.

Together, our organizations serve students, families, and communities deeply impacted by both historical trauma and ongoing violence. We believe this resolution reflects not only an acknowledgment of the past but a commitment to empowering youth with historical understanding, global awareness, and civic responsibility.

Holodomor Remembrance Day honors the millions of Ukrainians—many of them children—who perished in the 1932–33 Holodomor, a genocide engineered by the Soviet regime. Recognition by the San Francisco Youth Commission reinforces the importance of educating young people about the dangers of authoritarianism, state-sponsored violence, and the suppression of truth. Establishing this day in San Francisco ensures that the memory of the victims is preserved and that future generations understand the consequences of historical injustice.

Likewise, establishing February 24 as a Day of Solidarity for Ukraine acknowledges the ongoing full-scale invasion launched by the Russian Federation in 2022. For nearly three years, young Ukrainians have lived through displacement, fear, interrupted education, and the loss of homes and loved ones. Many continue to volunteer, serve, or provide humanitarian aid despite extraordinary circumstances. Solidarity from youth institutions in the United States amplifies their voices and underscores the shared democratic values that unite our communities.

We believe the San Francisco Youth Commission is uniquely positioned to elevate awareness among young people, create opportunities for meaningful civic engagement, and model global citizenship. Passing this resolution would demonstrate leadership and compassion, reinforcing the importance of standing with communities affected by both historical and contemporary injustice. SUSTA, USAS, and TeleHelp Ukraine fully support the resolution and commend the Commission for considering it. We welcome future opportunities to collaborate on educational programming, remembrance events, youth dialogue, or other initiatives that foster understanding and support for Ukraine.

Thank you for your attention, your commitment to youth empowerment, and your dedication to truth and human dignity.

Respectfully,
